FROM DENVER PUBLIC LIBRARY LEADERSHIP

Dear Library Community,

The Denver Public Library, like all of us, has faced challenges navigating the new global landscape over the past two years. In 2021, we were able to celebrate some milestones and wins while keeping health and safety top of mind. Without your continued support, we could not do the work we do. Together, alongside you, our community, we look forward to emerging stronger than ever because we know a strong library leads to a strong community.

In March 2021, we started reopening our branch locations to the public almost a year after we were forced to close due to the pandemic. In July, we were able to open part of the first floor of the Central Library on a limited basis while it remains under construction. We were thrilled to welcome customers back.

We also found time for some fun. We celebrated Bear Valley Branch Library's 50th anniversary and Ross-Broadway Branch Library's 70th anniversary. Like all of our locations, these branches are cornerstones of their neighborhoods.

A diverse slate of virtual programming continued and some in-person programming came back over time. We also had a great time engaging with our communities through our annual Winter of Reading and Summer of Adventure programs.

In late summer we released our new Strategic Roadmap, which is rooted in our mission, vision, and values. The Strategic Roadmap will help us ensure that the library is a place that welcomes community in our spaces but also meets our diverse communities where they are, reimagines our spaces to reflect community use, and ensures we focus on the well-being of internal staff culture while remaining responsible stewards of public funds.

We look forward to welcoming you back to our locations and sharing our progress with you over the next year.

Sincerely,

Michelle Jeske
City Librarian

MISSION

Together, we create welcoming spaces where all are free to explore and connect.

VALUES

WELCOMING: We make our resources, services, and expertise accessible for all, recognize the inherent dignity in each person, and provide safe places where everyone can be themselves.

CURIOSITY: We foster a culture of exploration, innovation, and forward thinking by creating environments that support learning and growth.

CONNECTION: We are neighbors. We foster relationships, listen, and act to build and strengthen our community. We bring people together to share information, ideas, and experiences.

THE EVOLUTION OF DPL'S BOOKMOBILE

Each year the American Library Association (ALA) celebrates National Library Outreach Day to recognize bookmobiles and library workers across the country who provide library access and outreach to their communities. The Denver

Public Library's own bookmobiles have a long history of serving Denver. From "A rubber-tired library" to "Public Library auto trailer" to "Traveling Branch" and "Reading Rocket," here's a glimpse into the evolution of DPL's bookmobiles.

"A rubber-tired library"

Beginning in 1930, our "rubber-tired library" hit the streets of Denver to reach out to communities without library service. Different types of vehicles came on board over the years. Of particular note was the 1950s-era bookmobile known as "Gerstenslager, Bookmobile King." This was a specific production vehicle that came from the passing of the 1956 Library Services Act. Gerstenslager originally created stagecoaches but made a shift to create a lineup of vans and trucks utilized by fire departments, libraries, and even the Oscar Meyer Weinermobile. Gerstenslager bookmobiles, or as some libraries nicknamed them, "Gertie," were individually custom painted by Gerstenslager in the factory to each specific library's name and branding design.

1950-1960 Denver Public Library Traveling Branch

In 1969, an issue of the West Side Recorder, a monthly West Denver newspaper, highlighted the bookmobile's summer schedule in the neighborhood. The paper refers to the vehicle as, "A Special Bookmobile - 'El Numero Cinco.'" The stops specifically focused on providing Spanish language books and family friendly programs. The article also mentions fines: "The overdue charge for materials from bookmobiles is five cents per week." This is roughly $.39 in today's economy. Luckily, DPL eliminated overdue fines in 2019.

Denver Public Library's Reading Rocket

Fast forward to the Janus sponsored Reading Rocket era of DPL's bookmobile in 2010. The artwork on the vehicle features the illustrations of Nate Williams. This design made him one of ten winners of the HOW 2010 Logo Design Awards. The colorful, outer space themed design brought the bookmobile light years ahead of its earlier hand painted lettering designs.

Today, in the basement loading dock of the Central Library, you will find the current fleet of DPL bookmobiles: one large truck and two Sprinter vans. Each vehicle is equipped with WiFi, a great selection of materials to check out, and the always friendly Mobile Services staff. Today's bookmobiles reach every corner of the city conducting outreach, visiting older adult facilities and schools, giving away free books, setting up shop at food banks, and so much more to meet the community where they are.

OSO ADVENTURE MEALS: BIZBOOST HELPS LAUNCH SMALL BUSINESS

When Dom Barrera and Felipe Vieyra took a backpacking trip, they didn't think it would spark a business idea. As outdoor enthusiasts, they got tired of eating the bland dehydrated food typically found at most outdoor stores. During the trip, they longed for and bonded over the realization that they both enjoyed the same home cooked Mexican meals despite growing up in two different places. Dom is from Colorado, and Felipe is from Michoacan, Mexico. Along with their business partners, Connor Lawrence and Marcos Vieyra, Oso Adventure Meals was formed through friendship, food, and a fondness for the outdoors.

Oso Adventure Meals is a startup business with a great mission to disrupt the status quo and make the outdoors more accessible to communities of color. The founders utilized BizBoost at Denver Public Library to help launch their company. Dom, one of the cofounders of Oso Adventure Meals, sat down to talk with us about his experience.

When did you realize the need for more diverse food in the outdoor world, and what caused you to act on it?

Me, I'm half Black and Latino, and our founders are Latino. From our personal experience, we primarily see meals [in the outdoor industry] that didn't represent our own backgrounds.

Dom Barrera and Felipe Vieyra

I remember going on my first backpack trip, it was beef stroganoff, and it was not good. And at that moment I realized there wasn't food for diverse folks in that space. So I thought, "Let's find a way to bring more diversity to the mountains." And to act on it, we really just brought it up with a few people and started a Kickstarter, and that's when we realized it can be a real thing.

How did you hear about BizBoost, and what did you learn along the way?

Another entrepreneur friend shared it with us. We looked it up, and that's how I found out. In our appointment, we learned about market size. It was really cool and helpful. They did an hour [of research prior] and literally had everything ready. It was kind of intense. The librarian shared basic reports and how to access them all online. It was super cool, and it helped out with our Kickstarter fundraising effort.

Any words for other small businesses thinking of using BizBoost?

It was a great experience. I would have used it earlier had I known about it. It was really helpful, and at the library, it's all accessible and free. We looked at the national market, but really focused on Colorado. It was cool to have access to valuable information and the expertise of the librarian, who knew their stuff inside and out.

Oso Adventure Meals officially launched in early 2022. They currently use a direct to consumer model, selling meals through their website, with plans to have their products available in a retail space. Check them out at osomeals.com or on Instagram and Facebook @osoadventuremeals.

FROM THE DENVER PUBLIC LIBRARY FRIENDS FOUNDATION

Dear Friends,

While 2020 felt like the year of closings, we hope to remember 2021 as the year of openings. Even though our community still experienced some shutdowns and restrictions due to the pandemic, Denver Public Library and the Friends Foundation were excited to celebrate the reopenings of branch locations and the return to being in person for some of our favorite events, like the Booklovers Ball and the Holiday Lighting Party.

As you look through the pages of this annual report, we hope you see how grateful we are for our community. For those of you who used our branches or mobile services, engaged with us online, and/or supported the Friends Foundation in any capacity, thank you! You gave us much to celebrate even during a challenging time. Highlights include:

- Providing $5.1 million in distributions to Denver Public Library, including $3.6 million to the Central Library renovation.
- Welcoming 570 of you to the Denver Botanic Gardens for Booklovers Ball: Booklovers in Bloom, which raised over $400,000, a record breaking amount.
- Establishing a community Task Force to examine the resources and structure needed for Denver Public Library to achieve its vision for the future. The Task Force of 22 members met five times over six months and made recommendations regarding governance and funding.
- Supporting the library's purchase of books, materials, and resources for circulation; programming for all ages; the development of Western History & Genealogy and other special collections; emergency relief fund for library staff; services for refugees and immigrants, and more.

In 2022, we anticipate even more openings and celebrations – from the new Bob Ragland Branch Library in the RiNo ArtPark Community Hub to the Children's Library at the Central Library to the 25th Anniversary Booklovers Ball. We hope you will join us as we honor the strength our community showed during the pandemic and prepare for all we have to look forward to in the future.

Yours very truly,

Jeff Riley

2021 FRIENDS FOUNDATION EVENTS

Reuniting in Person with Our Friends

The Friends Foundation was excited to welcome back supporters to in person events throughout the year. Here's where we saw you in 2021.

Booklovers in Bloom

As renovations continued at the Central Library, the Friends Foundation took the Booklovers Ball, one of Denver's most anticipated fundraising events, to the Denver Botanic Gardens on September 10, 2021. With 570 in attendance, the event raised more than $400,000, a record breaking total. Immersed in the beautiful gardens and underneath the summer stars, attendees enjoyed library stories of impact, a poetry reading from spoken word poet Franklin Cruz, and a musical performance from Raquel Garcia. GH Phipps was the presenting sponsor, and honorary chairs were Rick M. Garcia and Loretta P. Martinez, Esq., as well as Jim and Allison Johnson.

Holiday Lighting Party

Although the pandemic forced the Friends Foundation to cancel the 2020 Holiday Lighting Party, 225 supporters joined us December 1, 2021, on the seventh floor outdoor terrace of the Denver Art Museum to view the holiday lights at the Denver City and County Building. After sipping on warm drinks in Denver's chilly winter air, attendees also had the opportunity to privately view the museum's Western Art collection. Thanks to Cathy Schwartz and Phil Cernanec for "flipping the switch" to officially light the City and County Building that evening. If you'd like to attend the holiday lighting party, a gift of $250 or more guarantees an invitation to this annual event.

Pop-Up Book Sales

With renovations underway at the Central Library where large book sales are normally held, the Friends Foundation team took its bookselling business on the road, holding pop up used book sales at four locations – the Park Hill Yard Sale, the Cherry Creek Sidewalk Sale, the Bob Ragland branch, and the Cherry Creek Holiday Market. Approximately 2,500 adult and children's books were sold with proceeds supporting Denver Public Library.
